Read the information before continuing, and please don't say that it doesn't work. How to use: IMPORTANT: Before you continue, you MUST have The Elder Scrolls V: Skyrim installed on your hard drive. READ THE INSTRUCTIONS CAREFULLY. 1. Load The Elder Scrolls V: Skyrim. 2. In the main menu, select the option to load the trainer. 3. When prompted, select Yes. 4. The trainer should now load. 5. Select Yes to load the trainer. 6. The trainer may ask you to sign in. 7. Select Yes to continue. 8. Once the trainer is loaded, select Yes to allow it to run. 9. There are two selections you can make: Accuracy: This trainer will save your character's Accuracy stat (used to determine what percentage of the time you hit your target), with each shot. It will not change how the character's weapon currently functions. Change the Accuracy stat to a number between 0 and 25. 1-25 Accuracy: 0 Accuracy: 10. In order to save your game, you MUST select Save. 11. The trainer will now ask you to save. 12. Select Yes to save your game. 13. The trainer will automatically load the saved game you created. 14. Select Yes to continue. 15. The trainer will now ask you to exit. 16. Select Yes to exit. 17. Close the trainer. 18. You should now have a trainer icon in your Skyrim main menu. 19. You may want to remove the trainer from your main menu after using it. 20. If you do not want to have the trainer on your main menu, you can simply exit and restart the trainer. 21. The trainer will no longer be in your main menu. 22. You can use the trainer again. In the options menu, you can select what you want to change. Accuracy increases, Accuracy decreases, or both. Also, you can select an alternative animation for when you "attack" your target. You can also select the point you want to begin the animation. Before you begin, you will want to have your weapon aimed at your target. If you are using a bow, do 82157476af
